NEW ARRANGEMENT.

The favorite steamer COLUMBIA, Capt. James Harper, has recently been put in complete order, having had added to her former accommodations a spacious saloon and fourteen comfortable statesoms, with entire new bedding and other furniand will until the 22d September next, leav Baltimore EVERY SATURDAY AFTERNOON at six instead of four o'clock-thus affording passengers and shippers two hours more in Baltimore, more convenient hours in the morning. Return ing, the Columbia will leave Riley's wharf, Washington, EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING, at six, and Alexandria at seven o'clock, calling at all the usual stopping places, going and returning, to land and receive passengers and freight. Since the COLUMBIA has been enlarged, it rarely happens that she cannot take considerable additions to her usual freight. Shippers therefore having large lots of guano, pig iron, and other freight, can have them carried by special agreement, on terms mutually advantageous, on appli cation to the following agents.

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. CAPITAL OVER 350,000 DOLLARS, IND CONSTANTLY INCREASING. The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium neash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a ORLEANS, at the Ticket Office, corner of King | member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one-half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of the CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by tire, on the 13th day of March, 1854, since which time over seven thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over seventy thousand dollars have been paid for losses. Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospacts of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety not surpassed by any Company in the U. MAN WORSHIP.

The accession of fortune makes a vast difference in the interest which mankind feel in one of their fellows. Thomas Snooks, with a limited income and a large family, may be allowed to pass through the world amidst the most sublime indifference of society .-But Thomas Snooks, if an old uncle should without awakening reverberating echoes through the temple of fashion, and the slightchronicled by an obsequious press among As it is in the world of fashion, so is it in the world of politics. To-day a private gentle-Hon. Howell Cobb, Secretary of the Trea- man, who possesses neither power nor patpleases without exciting the slightest curiosity in a living soul. He may travel on foot or on horseback; he may worship in the Gothic Cathedral or the wooden chapel; he may day, a large number of students being in at- eat venison or sole leather, drink champagne tendance. The introductory lecture of the or water, and the community remain in blisschance to place our private gentleman upon one of the pinnacles of official power. Ail at once he becomes, not only officially, but personally, an object of the most intense consequence. The cut of his coat and the precise degree of polish upon his boots are chronicled with the most insane avidity. A twinge of state that it is the finest and most pleasant gout in his extremities causes a sympathetic road they have ever travelled on, and the agony in the big toes of the nation, and his only regret is that it is not completed to its faintest smile flashes along the electric teledestined terminus. We hope to welcome its graph like a gleam of auroral light. It would iron horse in our little village before many not be strange if the fortunate gentleman begins at first to doubt his own identity, and at last to believe that he has bitherto vastly underrated his own excellence. A glowing speak for Breckinridge and Lane, in Liberty | sense of supereminent greatness gradually ed in the Arabian Nights, where humble quadrupeds are converted in a twinkling into sovereign princes and beautiful queens. The propensity to magnify official greatness displayed itself at an early period in the history of the republic by the application of European titles of distinction, such as 'His Excellency," "His Honor," &c., to cur Republican office-holders. General Charles Lee, in a letter to Mr. Henry when Governor of Virginia, called these titles "tinsel epithets," and says: This fulsome, nauseating cant may be well enough adapted to barbarou monarchies, or to gratify the unadulterated pride of the magnifici in pompous aristocracies: but in a great, free, manly, equal commonwealth it is quite abominable; for my own part I would as lief they would put ratsbane in my mouth as the Excellency with which I Plaited and Britannia frame Castors, with cut am daily crammed. How much more true dignity was there in the simplicity of address amongst the Romans! Marcus Tullius Cicero. Decio Bruto Imperatori, or Caio Marcello supply country merchants. Hotel keepers, and Consuli, than to his Excellency Major General Noodle, or to the Honorable John Doodle. My objections are perhaps trivial and whimsical; but, for my soul, I cannot help stating them. If, therefore, I should sometimes ad-his head to the soles of his feet. He is no longer the same man. The magical wand of official elevation has exercised a power of personal or official disrespect, but the reverse." What would the stern old Republican have said if he had lived to our day and witnessed the profusion of titles and the disgusting man worship of the times? A BRAVE BOY .- A little boy in Holland was returning one night from a village to which he had been sent by his father on an errand, when he noticed the water trickling through a narrow opening in the dyke. He stopped and thought what the consequences would be if the hole was not closed. He knew. for he had often heard his father tell, the sad disasters which happened from such small beginnings, how, in a few hours, the opening of Alexandria, his sole Agents for the town and | would become bigger and bigger and let in known as the CINAKER OIL. This OIL is dyke, until the whole defence being washed away, the rolling, dashing, angry waters would sweep on to the next village, destroying life and property, and everything in its way. Should he run home and alarm the villagers, it would be dark before they could arrive, and the hole might even then be so large as to defy all attempts to close it .-A TONGS, &c.-I am in receipt of a variety Prompted by these thoughts he seated of Goods suited to the season, such as Andirons, himself on the banks of the canal, stopped the opening with his hand, and patiently waited the approach of some villager. But no one came. Hour after hour rolled slowly by, yet there sat the heroic boy, in cold and darkness, shivering, wet and tired, but stoutly pressing his hands against the dangerous breach. All night King street, Alexandria, a fine assortment of the he stayed at his post. At last the morning TION IN PREFERENCE TO THE CHEAPER AND LESS Virginia Regulation Hats, also Swords, Belts, broke. A clergyman walking up the canal, heard a groan and looked around to see where it came from. "Why are you there, my child?" he asked, seeing the boy, and surprised at his strange position. "I'm keeping back the water, sir, and saving the village from being drowned," answered the child, with lips so benumbed with cold that he could scarcely speak. The astonished minister relieved the boy. The dyke was closed, and the danger which threatened hundreds of lives was prevented.

SIR WALTER SCOTT AND HIS SPREEING IRSHMAN .- Sir Walter Scott once had an Irishman working for him, who was a great drunkard, and who often neglected the work that Sir Walter set him to do. One morning, while engaged in his library labor, word was brought him that his man had returned, after a two day's spree. Sir Walter dashed his pen down on his desk, and in great anger ordered the son of Erin to be sent to him immediately. Pat entered, like humbleness personified, and Sir Walter poured out the vials of his wrath: "You unthankful dog," said he, "here I have been putting up with your misdoings, and forgiving you from time JUST RECEIVED another supply of DRESS "if we must part, I'm sorry, and hope that no ill will happen ye; but, may I ask, where sels and Fringes; also, Ladies' Patent Elastic are you going to?"
